

HighLights

Trial Gardens and HortResearch at the South Mississippi Branch Experiment Station

Volume 4, Number 16

December 11, 2017

Published by Dr. Gene Blythe

Photo: Patricia Knight

Photo: Patricia Knight

Snow in a rare occurrence in southern Mississippi. A snowfall on December 8 transformed the South Mississippi Branch Experiment Station into a wintery wonderland (photos above). The sun returned the next day to create a magical scene (photos below).

'Sandy' lettuce, an All-America Selections winner for 2015, lies beneath a covering of snow in one of our raised salad tables on December 9 (below, left). Two days later, 'Sandy' is in top form — ready for harvest as part of a tasty salad (below, right).

