The hot days of summer can cause some plants to cease flowering, but some new introductions from Benary+ (the vegetative division of Benary) and Proven Winners are pushing through the heat of early summer with flowers and more flowers. Varieties in the Farina® series of Salvia farinacea, currently on the market from Benary+, have been producing color in our container trials since spring planting. In our in-ground trials, Helianthus (sunflower) Suncredible™ Yellow and Petunia Supertunia Vista® Snowdrift™ from Proven Winners have been flower-making machines (and will be available as plants in garden centers next year).
